

TRUE GLO

TrueGlo Helps Livestock Reach Their Full Genetic Potential Four Ways:

Immune System Support

TrueGlo supports the response to disease causing organisms that your show animals will encounter whenever you haul them to a show and have contact with other animals.

Stress

When animals are stressed by disease or environmental conditions, they produce acute phase proteins that reduce appetite, growth, and cause protein to be pulled from muscle. A healthy immune system is able to react to disease agents without mounting a performance robbing acute phase protein response.

Performance

With the high cost of feed it is important to squeeze every bit of nutrition out of your high quality show feed. Probiotics and prebiotics in TrueGlo support digestive health and help you get the most performance for your feed dollar by turning that feed and forage into mass and muscle.

Muscle Expression and Top Shape

We are all after better muscle expression and top shape in our show stock. The difference between a program that works and one that doesn't is the difference in look between an NFL running back and a marathon runner.
